Hertha Berlin stadium guide

Covering not only the stadium but the wider sports complex, prices without audio begin from around €7.00 for adults, €5.00 for concessions and €16.00 for a family card for 2 adults and 3 children up to 16 years old. Lasting anywhere between 60-75 minutes it represents pretty good value, and football fans can even opt for a Special Hertha BSC Tour which includes access to the club's training ground for a few euros extra. For more information and to book your place on the tour you can either phone +49 (0) 30 25 00 23 22, email [email protected] or visit the website for the most up to date tour times and information. Tickets to see Hertha Berlin play can either be purchased online, via phone +49 (0) 1805 1892 00 (Ticket Hotline) or at one of six Hertha fan shops listed above and located across the city. Price wise Hertha Berliner Sport-Club do not muck around with tickets divided into three categories: Category 3 are the cheapest and start at €18.00 for a place in the upper tier and rise to €52.00 for a central seat, and category 1 are the most expensive with a starting price of €30.00 rising to €89.00 for the aforementioned category 3 equivalent seats. Prices for category 2 expectedly fall somewhere between the two. The Olympiastadion Berlin is located in the Olympic Park, pretty far out from Berlin city centre at almost 10.00 km from the famous Brandenburg gate and the main train station (Hauptbahnhof). The standard allocation of tickets sees fans occupy the southern side of the goal-end, however if the demand or occasion necessitates it, then tickets will also be sold for the side towards the northern grandstand. Although the classic problems of an Athletics Track still remains for football fans, the Olympiastadion which dates back to the 20th century feels vibrant with the colorful use of blue serving to lift the shackles of the ground's doomy past. The views from the stands are all unrestricted, and the remodelling of the roof gives the stadium a new modern exterior making it one of the sleekest grounds in Europe. Berlin is regarded as one of the trendiest cities in the world and this manifests itself in a lively night-life and entertainment scene. Although you can be sure to find plenty of arty establishments, there's still a demand for traditional boozers and sports clubs, with the map below outlining some of the most popular ones in the city. Once you have arrived either via the train or metro there are quite a few options within the surrounding sports complex and surrounding roads. As far as we know 6 club stores has to be a record in Europe for a single team. From the city centre you can reach the stadium by driving West along Bismarckstraße 35 in a straight line until you reach the Olympic Park, passing Großer Tiergarten along the way. The address for satnav is: Olympischer Platz 3, 14053 Berlin. Car parks There is a large car park (Platz) to the east of the ground which welcomes matchday visitors for a few euros. Berlin has two operational airports which are well connected to Europe and the rest of the world. Tegelf/Brandenburg International Airport is located in the North-West of the city and has a lot of international flight carriers such as British Airways, Air France-Klm and domestics such as Lufthansa and Air Berlin. Schönefeld Airport located 18km outside of the city in technically a different region on the other hand focuses on the low-cost airlines and is well connected to Eastern Europe. Both airports have decent ground transportation such as coaches, taxis and trains, with the S-Bahn connecting Schönefeld to Berlin city centre for approximately €3.20. Surrounding the Olympic Park area there are numerous hotels dotted around the perimeter of the grounds with Hotel Rodorn, Hotel Villa Kastania and Concorde Hotel Am Studio all highly rated and close to both the train lines stations you need to get in.
